Canadian Operating Engineers Joint Apprenticeship And Training Council

The Canadian Operating Engineers Joint Apprenticeship and Training Council (COEJATC) is an industry-driven organization dedicated to the development and promotion of National Standards and delivering Quality Training Programs to facilitate the mobility of workers and to ensure a safe, efficient and effective construction industry.

The COEJATC will continue its work to improve and maintain a prosperous future for all of our partners by:

Providing a leading edge network of COEJATC Training Centers for operating engineers and its partners across Canada

Promoting our training and development programs so that they are recognized by all owners, contractors, governments (provincial, federal, territorial, municipal and aboriginal) as well as by the other trades

Providing a highly skilled, well-trained mobile workforce of operators nationwide

Assisting Training Centers in the development and acquisition of state-of-the-art technology and training aids for the delivery of national curriculum and programs for operating engineers
